Market Commentary

June 2025 saw global markets recover amid easing inflation and resilient labour data in the US and Europe. The Fed held rates steady, while China's weaker growth and ongoing trade uncertainty limited risk appetite. A temporary US-China tariff pause and strong tech earnings supported equities. Geopolitical tensions, especially the Iran-Israel conflict, drove safe-haven flows into gold. In the US, inflation rose slightly to 2.4%. The Fed kept rates on hold for a fourth consecutive meeting, while the DXY dollar index experienced its worst half-year performance (-10.7%) in more than 30 years.

Oil spiked during the Israel/Iran conflict, over the risks of Iran closing the Straits of Hormuz or either side hitting energy infrastructure in the Persian Gulf. Oil rose from $64 at end-May to trade over $80 briefly and settled at $68, up $4 or 6.0% in the month. Gas jumped as well - one-third of the world's LNG exports pass through the Straits - with 1m TTF hitting €41 before closing the month down 4.9% at €32.1. Gold rallied into the Middle East crisis and sold off after, ending the month +0.4% while platinum rose US$302 or 28% to US$1359/oz, breaking out of its multi-year level and posting its best month in more than 20 years. The LME Metals Index rose 4.8% and Copper jumped 7.5%.

South African assets tracked the global rally, with stocks posting their best start to the year in this century. Political tensions within the GNU rose after the dismissal of a DA deputy minister for unauthorised travel, although the market impact was limited and the DA remained part of the coalition while withdrawing from certain government engagements. The SARB introduced the idea of a three percent inflation target, which boosted sentiment within the local fixed income markets and strengthened the currency.

South African assets rose in June, with equities at the margin outperforming bonds. The Capped Swix rose 2.2% with the ALBI Index (+2.3%) matching those gains. The rand strengthened 1.6% to R17.71 against the US dollar. R214 yields dropped 22bps to 10.85%. Resources (+4.2%) outperformed industrials (+2.5%) and financials (+1.2%). Key sector leaders were Telecoms (+10.2%), Technology (+6.8%) and Precious Metals (+6.7%). Laggards included General Retail (-5.3%) and Food Producers (-4.3%). MSCI South Africa rose 4.4% in US dollars in June, outperforming MSCI World (+4.3%) but lagging MSCI EM (+6.0%).

The Silver Oak fund underperformed its Capped Swix benchmark by 0.7% during June. Long positions in Reinet (+0.4% outperformance), Telkom (+0.2%), Premier (+0.2%) and a short position in the food producer sector added most to relative performance, while short positions in the platinum sector and the telco sector detracted most from relative performance.
